“Communications within your Community Association”, is the program topic at PACA’s February 11, meeting.

LAND O’ LAKES – “Communications” will be the topic for our program panelists at the February 11, meeting of the Pasco Alliance of Community Associations (PACA).

The meeting, open to the public as well as to PACA members, begins at 7 p.m. on Thursday, February 11, at the Land O’ Lakes Community Center located at 5401 Land O’ Lakes Blvd. (US 41), three miles north of SR 54.

Speakers will each make short presentations that will then be followed by a question-and-answer session. The four panelists will be:

- Ms. Grace Posada of the St. Petersburg Times
- Mr. Jack Glasure of French West Vaughan
- Mr. Bob Moyer of Vanguard Management Group
- Ms. Kelly Cellini of Seven Oaks HOA

This program will provide communication concepts that could be useful to your community. Every association faces the challenge in how to be more effective in communicating.

PACA is a not-for-profit organization whose members include representatives from 75 of Pasco County’s homeowner associations, community development districts and condominium associations. PACA assists members by educating them on common issues and finding solutions to shared problems. It also represents the interests of members before all levels of government.

For more information on PACA, contact either Membership Director David Quinones at (813) 991-1505 or President Joe Wyatt at (813) 907-2081, or visit the PACA website at www.MyPACA.org.
